Titled .....

I declare that the data has been collected from the sources that are specified, that I have done the research and writing by myself, that I have made citations from sources that truly exist. This has been done according to the following academic standards of integrity:

1. The student must have academic honesty, not presenting the results of others' research as his/her own, and not being deceitful about the research of others. He/she must not take his/her own results and publish them in more than one place in a way that make them appear to be original research.
2. The student must make citations and references to the people or sources of data that are used in his/her research, and the principles of his/her research.
3. The student must not pursue academic benefit in a way that neglect or violates the rights of others or of human rights.
4. Academic results must come from study using academic principles as a standard, without bias. They must present the facts as they are, not deliberately turning from true results for their own benefit, or from a desire to bring harm to others. Results must be presented honestly, not exaggerating results beyond the academic evidence.
5. The results must be used in ways that are moral and legal.

If Payap University discovers that there has been plagiarism or that any data has been deliberately misrepresented, I allow Payap University to revoke their consideration of my thesis or academic research report.
